

Farewell Note

From Carol Leitch Miller Dotson

I wish to share that through a period of discernment my husband Scott and I have joyfully decided to enter more fully into a new chapter in our lives. A time of appreciating our new marriage, our family and friends, nurturing our health, and fostering each other's learning and growth.

It has been a privilege these past nine years to serve as a campus minister as a part of the Sheil Team at Northwestern's Chicago campus, where students, staff, and faculty received me, from the beginning, with warmth and enthusiasm, and where I had the good fortune to observe close up the priesthood of both Father Kevin Feeney and Father Bradley Zamora. Watching them lead a campus Newman Center in the context of the secular academy has been a lesson in true Christian leadership. It is with sadness in my heart that I take leave of the wonderful Sheil Catholic Center at Northwestern community. Together, we made our way through Abbott Hall construction, a flood, and COVID, and I will never forget your kindness to me and never cease to draw strength from your faith.

Please pray for Scott and me as we begin this new chapter.

Carol
